

FARM MAGAZINE FEATURES STORY OF TUNG INDUSTRY

The vital role played by tung producers in this area in the titanic war effort is described in a Southern Agriculturist feature story, "Boom in the Tung Belt." The article appears in the July issue now being distributed to readers of this section and written by Harold Severson, an associate editor of the farm magazine.

HAROLD SEVERSON

Mr. Severson spent several days calling on tung producers and government chemists in order to secure all the latest information on this strategic war material. In his article he points out that tung is so vital to America's war production program that every drop was diverted into military channels when hostilities began 2½ years ago.

"Offhand," he wrote, it's difficult to associate our military conquests with the pale golden oil trickling from 12 tung mills in five Southern states. Nevertheless, America's booming military might is dependent upon just such a seemingly trivial item. After the war there will be a fascinating story to tell about tung's role in the final great victory, but now military secrecy forbids references to its wartime uses."

The article traces the development of the tung industry in America. Back in 1905, L. S. Wilcox, American consul general at Hankow, China, sent tung seed to America. About 1912, ten trees were planted on the grounds of the Florida Experiment Station at Gainesville. Two of these trees were especially productive and their seed played an important role in developing the tung industry of Florida and the remainder of the Tung Belt.

According to Mr. Severson, there are real opportunities for farmers and orchardists who wish to devote only a little time and space to tung orchards. He points out that around Cairo, Ga., many of the farmers plant tung trees along their outside fences and cross fences. Many of them sell from $100 to $500 worth of tung nuts each year from their so-called fence row trees. However, big orchardists produce the bulk of the tung oil in America.

The tung belt is described in the Southern Agriculturist story as beginning near Beaumont, Texas, and extending eastward along the Gulf into northern Florida. It is approximately 100 miles wide. About half the tung fruit or nuts comes from Pearl River County, Mississippi, with most of the country's production growing within a 100-mile radius of Bogalusa, just across the line in Louisiana.

Mr. Severson warns prospective tung producers that the tung is not a bonanza crop. He reminds his readers that during the early 80's, suckers poured their savings into big tracts of cutover timber land. "They soon found that tung orchards needed constant applications of folding money to be really productive," he writes. Asked to pay out for tending, upkeep of the groves, pruning and fertilizing, they were inclined to draw their purse strings tight and write off their losses as a bad investment.

However, Mr. Severson cites the case of L. J. "Dutch" Young, who came to Poplarville, Mississippi and started a large orchard. He knew nothing about farming, and less about tung orchards. Nevertheless, despite many difficulties, he today has 173 acres in tung trees which will net him close to $10,000 this fall.

In his closing paragraph, Mr. Severson says: "Meanwhile, our armed forces make good use of the tung oil preparations which have developed from the handling of seed sent from China to America four decades ago. And the pale golden oil is bringing a new measure of prosperity to ex-lumbermen, farmers and absentee owners scattered all the way from Maine to California. Whether the producer has two acres or 6,000 of the tung trees, he stands a good chance to meet the challenge of the income tax collector. That's prosperity in any language. ### LEAFLETS TO BE THROWN OVER CITY SATURDAY AT 2:15 P. M.

Five $25 Bonds To Be Given To Finders of Leaflets With Donor's name Attached

The Mississippi department of the American Legion is sponsoring the dropping of leaflets over the City of Bay St. Louis on Saturday, June 24 at 2:15 p. m.

The Clement R. Bontemps Post No. 139 announces that five of our patriotic citizens have pledged a $25 E Bond each. They are: V. A. Morreale, agent Mobile Express; U. S. Cuevas, owner Dr. Nut Bottling Works; Lamar Otis, owner Western Auto Associate Store; Wilmer Thi-beaux, owner Wilmer's Cash Grocery; Ed Ortle, owner Ortle's Theatre.

On Saturday, June 24 at 2:15 a Civil Air Patrol plane will fly over the vicinity of the Courthouse and the Bond Sales Booth next to the Postoffice dropping leaflets. Among these leaflets will be five emblems which with a bond donor's name attached will entitle the finder to a $25 E Bond upon presentation of the emblem at the Bond Sales Booth.

Music will be furnished by "Pat" Rooney and his Bay High Band.

Let's support 100 per cent this patriotic endeavor on the part of the American Legion and come out with our checks and our pocket books ready to buy bonds. If you are not one of the finders of an emblem you may still buy bonds. There will be someone at the booth to take care of the sale of bonds so all patriotic citizens should back the Attack by purchasing to the limit on this Bond Day.

If the American Legion can give time and effort to the sponsoring of this surely we can give our fullest support without hesitation just as our invasion battalions did.

ORTIE THEATRE SUNDAY - MONDAY "A GUY NAMED JOE"

Two Great Stars Head List Of Players in M-G-M's Film, Spencer Tracy and Irene Dunne

Spencer Tracy and Irene Dunne, two great screen favorites, are together for the first time in "A Guy Named Joe," a delightful story of the "life after death," of fighting pilots, and the combination seems certain to make a new chapter in screen history.

The film is showing at the Ortie Theatre, Sunday and Monday. Tracy, as Major Pete Sandridge, daredevil pilot and intense suitor of Miss Dunne, has a role that calls for unusual acting. It's the usual Tracy "man's man" part with an added touch of whiskey and delicate fantasy, and the skilled Tracy takes it for all it's worth. The characterization, as he does it, ranks with his memorable work in his award-winning "Captains Courageous" and "Boys Town" portrayals.

For her M-G-M debut Miss Dunne is seen as one of those new women of this era, a Ferry Transport pilot. For the touching romantic scenes in Exotic South Seas backgrounds, her personality and talent are most ideally suited.

In the supporting cast are such well known names as Lionel Barrymore, "The General" of that shadowy land to which pilots go, Ward Bond, direct from his success as "John L. Sullivan" in "Gentleman Jim," and the film veteran, James Gleason.

Van Johnson gets another boost toward stardom as the young pilot, also in love with Miss Dunne, whose destiny is guided by Major Sandridge. He appears in this role following acclamation for his great soldier characterization in "The Human Comedy," and his portrayals in "Somewhere I'll Find You" and "The War Against Mr. Hadley."

Bay St. Louis is proud of Mr. Chapman's advancement - as he is one of its native sons.

A recent issue of a New Orleans paper carried the announcement that Lawrence Y. Chapman, 8017 Nelson street, New Orleans has been made assistant cashier of the New Orleans Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, effective on Wednesday.

Mr. Chapman is the son of Mrs. Carrie Chapman and the late W. J. Chapman of this city and is a graduate of Bay High. He has been associated with the New Orleans Federal Reserve Bank for the past seven years and was formerly with the New Orleans Bank and Trust Company.

Bay St. Louis is proud of Mr. Chapman's advancement - as he is one of its native sons.

WAR BOND DRIVE ON WAY

Fifth War Loan Drive Opened June 12 — Workers Active—Quota $325,000.00

Hancock County's War Bond Quota is $325,000.00. At this time there has been subscribed approximately one third of this amount, but we are far from reaching our goal. There is still approximately $200,000.00 of bonds to be sold in the county.

Many of us may have concluded that the war is nearing an end. We should realize that it is not over by any means. We should know that the heaviest fighting is ahead of us yet.

Our boys in France and those in the Pacific are today engaged in battles that may be deciding factors. These battles have not yet been won. Let us not become complacent when we receive good news. It is up to us back home to see that the boys at the front have all the materials and equipment necessary for the carrying on of these battles.

We should not take the attitude of allowing the other fellow to do it. Realize that every $18.75 bond purchased by you adds up in the finals and means the reaching of our quota.

Quotas are assigned according to bank deposits. Certainly no mistake has been made in this matter. The money is on hand, and those who have it should realize that they owe a bounden duty to their country to loan it their money.

War Bonds are a good investment. They pay a fair rate of interest. To the working man, they offer an opportunity to save his money.

We hope that the people of this county will come to the front as they have in all past war efforts, by subscribing the Fifth War Loan Drive Quota.

We would be happy if it were possible for this county to be among the first ten counties to reach their quota so that we may receive the award of one of the plaques which will be given to each of the first ten counties in the state. It is worthwhile fighting for.

Won't you lend your hand and your money so that we can say to the boys on the Atlantic and the Pacific that we are back of them 100 per cent.

American Red Cross

After the sweepers, in amazingly ordered confusion, came the whole first flat-bottomed family of landing craft laden with fighting men, guns, tanks, shells, field rations, hypodermics, radio sets, BANDAGES, trucks, and other bewildering baggage of combat.

The above is an excerpt taken from an Associated Press report of first hand information of the invasion on D-day. The words are particularly impressive, because they mention the most important of the necessary equipment needed for the "Great Parade." The word which we have emphasized is BANDAGES. You women who have worked so diligently at home, making these bandages, now are well aware that you yourselves, represented by yours, were holding hands across the sea with the brave heroes of the invasion.

June 6th, 1944, will probably go down in history as the most wonderful day on record. It was a day long awaited by the masses of down trodden people. A day which dawned bright with the light of all Christianity, a Shining Light which meant the beginning of the end of all tyranny. Soldiers of Christ are marching forward, ready to die as He did, for the salvation of the world. These men who will shed their blood, that the world might be a better place to live in, regardless of creed, are Christian; followers of the First Man who willingly shed His blood for the salvation of all. The Blessed stigma of Christ is emblazoned in every wound which they receive. We women are resolved to bind tenderly those wounds inflicted in His name. We cannot all be there to staunch the precious blood that flows, but we can keep those who are supplied with all they need.

There is never a dull moment. We can give out time we can make bandages, we can make in the Holy effort of bringing a speedy end to a work of Supreme Sacrifice, which began nearly two thousand years ago, when the Divine Son of God, became the humble Son of Man, and shed His blood for the betterment of His fellowman, for the security and peace of the world to come.

The July quota of gauze for sterile dressings has been received. All workers are urged to continue, go that the usual prompt shipments may be made. Remember each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday these rooms are opened all day, also on Wednesday evening from seven P. M., they will be open to those who are unable to work during the day. The rooms are located in the Masonic Temple Bldg., on the second floor.

A letter was received by Mrs. Leo Seal from Mr. J. K. Rockwell, thanking the Hancock County Production Unit for the Kit Bags received by the enlisted men under his jurisdiction. One of these bags is given to each man at a Port of Embarkation, and contain articles for his convenience and comfort. Among the numerous packages are a household kit, with needles, thread, soap, razor blades, shoe strings, tablet, envelopes, pencil, chewing gum, and a bag of hard candies. These are very acceptable, and are enthusiastically received by the boys going out. The kits are made, packed, and shipped from this county, to a Port of Embarkation, by the ladies of the Production Unit.

The Production Chairman wishes to report that 144 Kit Bags were completed and shipped for distribution last week.

Workers are badly needed in the Production Unit. Anyone who has time to sew is requested to call 67 or 164 for full information as to time, etc.

Mrs. A. G. Moore, Knitting chairman, reports that the present quota of Navy Scarfs has been completed. There are however, on hand for you women who knit, navy sweaters, and khaki army sweaters.

A word of praise is due the Waveland and Logtown Units for the very fine work that they are doing with surgical dressings. The Chapter is very grateful to these ladies for their constant efforts, and would like to extend its thanks.

Mrs. Leo Seal would like to thank personally, the three young men who were of such invaluable assistance to her on the day of the Blood Bank. She was unable to secure the names of the boys, but would like for them to know her appreciation for their work.

Recreational School Doubles Enrollment

The Recreational School has just completed one half month. From all indications it is a grand success. The enrollment has doubled that of last year.

New equipment has been purchased and you will see children enjoying games of badminton, volleyball, croquet, archery.

For the very young the sand box is new and popular. There is never a dull moment. These youngsters are positively happy under the careful supervision of Mrs. Celine Ashcraft.

When 2 o'clock comes, each and every child is ready for their refreshing and much needed shower bath. Then a half hour rest period is observed.

After rest period is over the children are taken to the beach for a half hour swim.

At 4:20 p. m. Mrs. Ashcraft drives each child to his or her home with a "So Long—I'll see you tomorrow."

Mrs. Ashcraft is giving her untiring devotion to this project and has the wonderful reputation of understanding, teaching and development of the child mind.

Definite figures are not yet available but the net amount realized is approximately $2800.

Those in charge feel indebted to the many whose names are too numerous to list for the valuable assistance rendered both in taking charge of the booths and of the making of candy, cakes, sandwiches, and the generous donations. Especially do they appreciate the A. & G. theatre and Ortie Theatre for the privilege of selling candy in connection with the fair. They also wish to thank the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, The Sisters of St. Joseph's Academy, the Boy Scouts, St. Margaret's Daughters and members of the Altar Society, for their assistance.

BONDS PROVIDE WAR SUPPLIES

IN connection with the Fifth War Loan, it is important that the people of Hancock County realize that the nation has undertaken, in the invasion of Western Europe, one of the most hazardous enterprises of this or any other war.

Moreover, everyone of us should understand thoroughly that the cross-channel offensive is possible only because American industry and labor has turned out the material of war in vast quantities.

Military experts assure us that our Army has no superior in equipment, new weapons or latest designs and that the supplies available for our men in their supreme effort are unexcelled anywhere. The enormous production of war supplies is possible solely because the Government is financially able to pay for their manufacture.

While labor and industry, in combination, produced the goods, the flow of cash from the U. S. Treasury is what keeps them in motion. Naturally, the outpouring of public money is possible only so long as the Treasury is able to secure funds from the people of this country.

The job of supplying, training, transporting, housing, clothing, feeding, nursing an army and navy is a tremendous undertaking, even for the finest industrial plant in the world.

Some idea of the supply problem is apparent when we remember that it took months to plan the operations in Africa, that units had to be trained to unload vessels, railway units to operate railroads, engineer units to build roads, baking units to bake bread, medical units to care for the wounded, etc.

In the invasion of Europe, everything is on a larger scale, requiring more and more supplies, ships, vehicles, tanks, planes, guns, etc., etc.

In the North African operation, some 700,000 different items of equipment and supply, from tanks to watch-springs, had to be available. More than 390 different items of clothing and equipment were required, more than 10,000 different signal Corps items were needed, some 68,000 items of medical supplies, more than 100,000 articles for the engineers corps, running from bridges and bull dozers to storage facilities and railroad locomotives, and around a quarter of a million different ordnance items had to be provided.

While the quantity of supplies has been gradually built up for the present enormous undertaking, the wear and tear of active campaigning will rapidly deplete these enormous stocks. Experts intimate that we will need greater supplies of most items, especially those things that wear out quickly under service usage.

A pair of shoes, for example, lasts only about two weeks under combat conditions. Other things are rapidly dissipated, some through enemy action, some through unavoidable accident and some through ordinary wear and tear.

Consequently, if the people of Hancock County have the intention of standing behind their fighting men, it is necessary for everyone to make the maximum effort in subscribing to the Fifth War Loan campaign.

The news that the large sum has been successfully and quickly raised will be encouraging to men who confront the enemy. It will give them assurance that, regardless of what they need, the people of the United States intend to supply them with every possible advantage as they face the foe.

UNITY IN THE REPUBLIC

WHILE thousands of persons, including the Governors of thirty-four states looked on, Governor Broughton, of North Carolina, representing the South and Governor Saltonstall of Massachusetts, representing the North, shook hands on the battlefield of Gettysburg to symbolize the unity of forty-eight American States.

The tableaux was appropriate, despite minor irritations which sometimes attract unwarranted public attention. Loyalty and unity pervade the Republic with little trace of the bitter hatred that prevailed less than eighty years ago.

Because the Union successfully withstood the threat of secession and stands stronger than ever among the nations of the earth today does not mean, however, that it is immune to the processes that sometimes result in the dissolution of nations.

It is not disloyalty to suggest, even in the midst of the present war, that the future greatness of the country depends upon the wisdom and restraint of a strong federal government which must be willing to recognize and respect the inalienable rights of the people of the separate states.

To this end, it will be necessary for the people of the United States, in the course of the coming years, to delineate and define the area in which Federal authority shall be supreme. That this is necessary in order to meet the problems of the present age is certain.

Just as apparent is the necessity for definite restrictions upon the power exercised by the central government. There must be generous recognition of the rights of the people to local self-government through the instrumentality of state and municipal governments.

Buy a War Bond today in behalf of the fighting man.

The idea that education ends when a man begins to work, or a woman marries, is evidence of ignorance.

The successful landing in Normandy represents military perfection to a higher degree than the average American suspects.

Hancock County should promptly subscribe to its quota of War Bonds; after all, a safe investment, in time of war, is something to enjoy.

Tax Commission
The records of the tax commission show that in the first 13 days of June the sum of $1,176,068.33 was collected for the state. From January 1st to June 13th total collections thru the tax commission amounted to $15,237,668.79, which is almost two million in excess of the 1943 collection for the same period.

Mississippi Timber
One of Mississippi's greatest resources has been timber and for more than a half century it has supplied a vast income to the state. The great pine forests of this state were sold to mill operators and lumber syndicates for a small per cent of the real value, because at that time the average land owner did not realize the value of timber. virgin pine, and hardwood too, has been cut and used or shipped away. However, the state still has good timber and has more growing. It is to this growing timber that special attention must be given. Even now with our timber supply greatly reduced Mississippi is producing approximately two and a half billion feet of lumber per year. The state is said to have 16,000,000 more acres of "woods" at this time, much of that is well set with young timber and more being planted. "Tree farms" are being established and trees planted and cultivated like corn. The eleven states of the Deep South have in operation at this time approximately 17,000 saw mills and 45 pulp mills and are supplying about forty per cent of the nation's lumber. This young timber must be protected from fire and on land where no timber is growing seedlings should be planted and diligent attention given to protecting and encouraging the young trees. The State maintains forestry service and so does the government. If you need suggestions or advice about young trees write to A. A. Leggett, State Forester, Jackson, Mississippi.

The Flame that had a bigger job to do!

Thousands thrilled to the celebration of bringing natural gas to Marshall, Texas, back in 1909. Few realized that it was only the beginning of a new, important industry that would some day extend throughout the Gulf South.

In the 35 years that followed, far-sighted men with courage and determination risked capital and planned and worked to discover new sources of supply. They built a natural gas transmission system to serve the fuel needs of this region.

Today this efficient fuel is doing a wartime job in hundreds of communities, industries and military centers. Over the Gulf South, from the Mexican border to the coast of Florida, the flame of natural gas is doing a bigger job.

We've heard that Eisenhower and his Americans have hurled themselves like a thunderbolt against the bristling defenses of Hitler's Wehrmacht!

We've heard that they are smashing at our foe — sparing neither steel nor sweat nor blood in one final, furious assault that marks the supreme military effort of this War!

Used Car Ceilings

Anyone planning to buy or sell a car, on or after July 10, may get specific information as to prices and procedure from his local War Price and Rationing Board, OPA has announced.

All sellers, private individuals, as well as dealers, will be affected by the program, OPA said.

OPA pointed out that passenger cars are an integral part of our national transportation system, especially in rural areas where a regular trip to town in the family car is often the only way to get supplies for farm production and family living.

The prices on used cars, on which there have been no ceilings, lately have risen to a point where many farmers who needed this transportation could not afford it, it was added.

OPA is also providing used car dealers with copies of the regulation concerning price lists.

Egg Prices Extended

Maximum prices for wholesale grades of eggs have been extended temporarily until the Office of Price Administration can complete a revised regulation to be issued soon it was announced.

Wholesale grades refer to those eggs which have not been completely graded or candled.

Point-Free Shoes

Limited quantities of "odd-l" shoes may be sold to consumers ration free at specified prices reductions during the three-week period from July 10 through July 29, OPA announced.

Men's and women's shoes of all sizes, and youths' and boys' sizes 1 to 6 (shoes worn by boys beginning at about seven years of age), are included in the release. Children's and Misses' and little boys' shoes will not be affected, since those shoes were temporarily ration free during the first three weeks of May.

Regulation Clarified

The gasoline rationing regulation has been clarified to allow issuance of gasoline for "B" and "C" coupons for use in a registered vehicle if that vehicle is to serve as a power unit for such non-highway uses as driving saws, pumps, mills and the like, or if the fuel is to be used by automobile repairmen for testing motors. However, it is provided that such gasoline may not be used to propel the vehicle.

Housewives and other persons who collect waste kitchen fats will continue to be paid in ration points and cash for all household salvage fats turned in to food stores, OPA announced.

The current rate of payment is 2 red points and four cents a pound, he said.

Officials said they had noted a decline recently in salvage collections and urged housewives to save "every possible ounce." Waste fats are needed "now as never before," they said.

ORTTE THEATRE
WED-THURSDAY
"HI DIDDLE DIDDLE"

Adolphe Menjou, Martha Scott with Pola Negri, Dennis O'Keefe, Billie Burke, June Havoc

"Hi Diddle Diddle" Wednesday and Thursday at the Ortte Theatre through United Artists release, sets a hard-to-beat pace as one of the most hilarious, sparkling comedies ever to be flashed on the screen. Peppering with smart dialogue, gay song and dance and a loop-the-loop romance, Andrew Stone's new hit finds star performers Adolphe Menjou, Martha Scott, Pola Negri, June Havoc, Dennis O'Keefe and Billie Burke involved in a series of side-splitting situations that can happen to anybody and just never do. It's fun all the way and, to top it off, Leon Schlesinger, the famous creator of short cartoon films, has added some unusual animated sequences which are delightful and good for a score of laughs.

At a lavish ceremony Janie Prescott, played by Martha Scott, is married to sailor Sonny Phylfe. (Dennis O'Keefe) who is late for the wedding. The moment the knot is tied things begin to pop, and Janie and Sonny never find a chance to get together. Janie's mother (Billie Burke) gambles away her fortune; Sonny's father, Col. Phylfe (Adolphe Menjou), who is being supported by his opera-star wife, promises to recoup Mrs. Prescott's losses. Before Sonny and Janie can start on their honeymoon, Col. Phylfe calls on Sonny to aid him in a scheme to fulfill his promises to Janie's mother. Janie and Sonny finally get together but until that time they just jump from one crazy escapade to another.

To keep up to the high spirit of Frederick Jackson's fun-filled screenplay, every member of the star-studded cast hands in an engaging performance. Jane Havoc especially does a fine job in the part of the night club singer, and offers two tuneful songs, "The Man With the Big Smokey" and "I Loved You Too Little and Too Late," and Pola Negri, returning to the screen after an absence of eleven years, is excellent as Adolphe Menjou's opera-singing wife. It's Andrew Stone's first picture for United Artists—and it's a topper.

Congressional
by Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

Americans generally have had their pulses quickened and their visions of an early victory stepped up as the result of recent developments on the global war fronts on which American soldiers are fighting. The news of the successful landing of American and Allied soldiers on the beachhead of France was still fresh in American minds when the radio flashes electrified the whole country with the news of the second bombing of Japan by American bombers. In the meantime, another good omen appeared in the news of the advance of the Russians on the eastern front. All in all, the past few weeks have been weeks of glorious achievements by America and her Allies. The casual reader is too prone to accept these news flashes with a mental note that the war is about over. No one can deny that all of these happenings are good omens. But a brief analysis of them might be helpful.

First, the invasion of the French coast is now an actuality. While it is still possible that this invasion could prove another Dunkirk, it is not probable that this will happen. On the contrary, all indications are that we are there to stay until the end of the war; that we will gradually increase our holdings and that they will spread until the invasion of Germany proper or the end of the war. When the casualties are made public it will be found that the cost of the invasion already has mounted into the thousands, possibly 20,000. That this successful invasion is a thorn in the side of Hitler's Germany is beyond question. It means more than the engagement of Hitler's troops. It means that his forces are divided between the eastern and the western fronts. It gives Russia the stimulus which she has so long craved and the opportunity for another drive—this time toward Germany itself. Incidentally, the news dispatches reflect that the doubting Thomases were all wrong and that Russia is in reality going to press every advantage that the opening of this new front gives her.

As we have repeatedly pointed out in this column, it is the Russian front that offers the best opportunity for the final crushing blow to Hitler this year. This is said in nowise to minimize the importance of the second front of the Allies in France; but the difficulties of large scale crossing and landing on that front makes such operations at this time very hazardous.

On the other hand, Russia has no such barriers to cross. She can strike at will with an estimated 5,000,000 Russian combat troops; over fifty level country at any one of a number of points. That she intends to do so is indicated by the activities there.

Moreover, Russia has some rather large stake beckoning her on. If she decides to advance on her northern flank toward the Pripiet Marshes and the Baltic she could force Finland out of the war. She could then regain Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. Such operations would furnish an opportunity for her fleet to operate against the Germans in the Baltic Sea. And, lastly, they would be heading straight toward Prussia, with Berlin lying beyond.

By attacking on the southern flank they could win the oil fields at Ploesti and the grain fields of Rumania and Bulgaria, and could join Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia.

All in all, Hitler must find himself in a rather uncomfortable position and one that even now would prove final and disastrous if the German people as a whole understood the desperateness of the situation. For in addition to the eastern and western fronts here described, Der Fuehrer is being hard pressed by the British and Americans in Italy. His whole production machine, his factories and his transportation facilities—both in Germany proper and in the countries which he so ruthlessly occupied—are all within bombing range of allied bombers. Not a single factory (unless there would be a few which are said to be underground) is out of reach of tons of Allied bombs dropped from bombers stationed in Italy, in Russia, in England, and no doubt some in France itself, where our fighter planes are already operating on airfields hastily constructed on the French beachhead. Uneasy must be the head that today wears the German crown.

"LADY, LET'S DANCE"
AT A. & G. THEATRE
SUNDAY AND MONDAY
A (Monogram) Dancing-
Skating Spectacle

Producer Scott R. Dunlap scaled new heights, personally and for Monogram, in putting together this second presentation of the astounding Belita's skill on skates and, it is revealed for the first time, on the dance floor. Her successful "Silver Skates" gave showmen profits and promise. This bigger and better picture confirms in triplicate the convictions of greatness held by admirers of the star's first work.

Belita is seen in five spectacular production numbers, dancing in earlier ones, skating later on, which drew enthusiastic applause from a preview audience unapprised what it was going to see. Four were written by David Oppenheim and Ted Grouya, one by Lew Pollack and Charles Newman, and all directed by Dave Gould in tiptop manner. These sequences give the picture its class and quality. Between them an attenuated tale written by Peter Milne and Paul Gerard Smith, from a story by Bradbury Scott and Dunlap, is told with inconsequential effect save as contrast to the essential entertainment.

The chief support is provided by James Ellison, Walter Catlett and the comic comedians, Frick and Frack. The music is dispensed by the Henry Busse, Eddie LeBaron, Mitch Ayres and Lou Bring orchestras, all ably. Frank Woodruff's direction is smoothly effective.

The Cast:
Belita ..... Belita
Jerry ..... James Ellison
Timber ..... Walter Catlett

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

New Version of an Old American Tradition

We were sitting on Ed Carey's porch, enjoying a friendly glass of beer, when a squadron of fighter planes goes over—in tight formation—swift and trim and powerful.

"There," says Ed proudly, "goes an American tradition. 'What do you mean, tradition?' Eben Crowell says, 'America's a hundred sixty years old—flying's the newest thing there is.'"

"But those planes," says Ed, "they're the best in the world—the best made and the best flown. That's what I mean by an American tradition: making things, doing things, just a little better, whether it's an airplane or a railroad or a glass of fine American beer like this."

And from where I sit, Ed has put his finger on what makes America great—and will keep her great. The urge to do things just a little better—from the planes we make to the glass of beer that we enjoy. Things to be proud of—all of them!

The battle for the World is on!

NOW THAT the chips are down... now that our men are writing decisive history with their blood...

There can be no halfway measures for us.

The greatest battle in the history of the world must be matched by the greatest war loan in the history of the world.

That's what Uncle Sam says... the same Uncle Sam for whom your brothers and sweethearts and husbands are fighting and dying this very minute.

They, in the front lines, are throwing in everything they have.

We, behind the lines, must do the same.

Remember, this is the battle for the WORLD. Our world. And we've got to win it. That's why Uncle Sam expects every dollar, like every soldier, to do its duty.

Put this Fifth War Loan over... buy more War Bonds than you think you can!

HELL DIVING'S HIS JOB ..LENDING IS YOURS!

WITH GUNS BLAZING and a prayer in his stout heart, this American fighter is hell-bent on destruction of our enemies. HE is not thinking of how little or how much he's doing to help win the war. For him, the chips are down; but his fighting spirit is as high as the heavens from which his plane is diving.

In cramped foxholes and disease-infested jungles, on sun-scorched beachheads—under and over the seven seas—other Americans are matching his courage. And their name is legion. They KNOW that war is a bloody business; that their lives, as well as yours, are now at stake. You cannot—you must not—let them down.

Is it asking too much of you to back these men up by buying more, and still more, War Bonds? There can be but one answer. You'll find it in your own heart.

And remember, too, as you dig deeper than ever before into your pocketbook or cash surplus, that the Fifth War Loan MUST raise 16 billion dollars. It is the greatest financing drive the world has ever known... to back up the greatest invasion drive the world has ever known.

And Here Are 5 MORE Reasons for Buying EXTRA Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help win the peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

SOUTHERN BELL

Has Not Profited
BY THE WAR

Financially the telephone company has not profited by the war. The rate of return on the amount of money invested in telephone plant in Mississippi is now the lowest since the depression and is still declining.

While the prices of practically everything, including the costs of furnishing telephone service, have gone up, telephone rates have not increased—on the contrary long distance telephone rates have been reduced, resulting in large savings to telephone users in Mississippi during the past three years.

The schedule of pay of telephone workers is the highest it has ever been. At the same time taxes have increased tremendously. Since our entry into the war in December, 1941, the telephone company has paid out more than $3,800,000 for federal, state, county and municipal taxes in Mississippi.

Though the telephone company is doing the largest volume of business in its history it is making less than 3 1/2% on its investment in Mississippi.
